Class: F.3D

I think the part that they had to jump from the bridge when the train was passing by is the most impressive. As at that time, they encounter a fatal position. They still sustain each other. It shows that they are not the friends that just enjoy the materials, splendid things together. They still support their friends when they are in dangerous. They share their life. I think their friendship are upto death.

I had a friend. When I first met her, I did not like her. Since she was extremely hard-working. However, when I got alone with her later, I began to like her. In fact, she was greatly nice and exceedingly helpful. This year, we exchanged letters often. Letters were amazing things. It told our innermost heart through it. We became best friends. I found that we should not measure others by our own opinion but their heart.
