This scene uses an exciting event to describe their friendship. It is very profound. While they were crossing the bridge, a train came suddenly. Gordie and Vern were in danger. Chris and Teddy did not ignore them. Instead, they gave them continuous support. I appreciate that Gordie and Vern helped each other bravely although they were in danger. This really shows "Calamity is the touchstone of man".

Once, my good friend told me a secret about her love and reminded me not to tell others. However, I told it to another good friend. Then, the secret is made uncovered. It made her very embarrassing. Since then, she did not say a word to me anymore. If you want to have a good relationship, you should always be as good as one's word. You should never disclose others' secrets. Then others will recognise you as a "good friend".
